We Are Here

A school is like a world itself. As students at Seventy-First, we strive individually and collectively to achieve our goals. We have an opportunity to grow mentally and physically. We have time to enjoy old friendships and time to cultivate new ones. We spend our time both in serious thought and in joyful celebrations of our youth. As the year closes, we realize that as Passengers in Time, we are here but for a moment.

Andrea Campbell and Dean Shapiro enjoy a few moments alone during lunch.

Lynette Alexander, Yvonne Banks, and Bobbi Wardlaw display Falcon spirit during a pep rally.

But For A Moment

Michael Williams enjoys a peaceful moment with his guitar during lunch.

Walking between classes seems to be an experience that all students face.

Edward Scott takes time to prepare for another day of school.

Students take time to enjoy a lunch during their hectic day.

A Time For Enrichment

Studying is the idea behind Seventy-First High School.

Miss White and Kim Scott look over student council duties.

Mrs. Sneed spends time with students whenever possible.

A Time To Relax

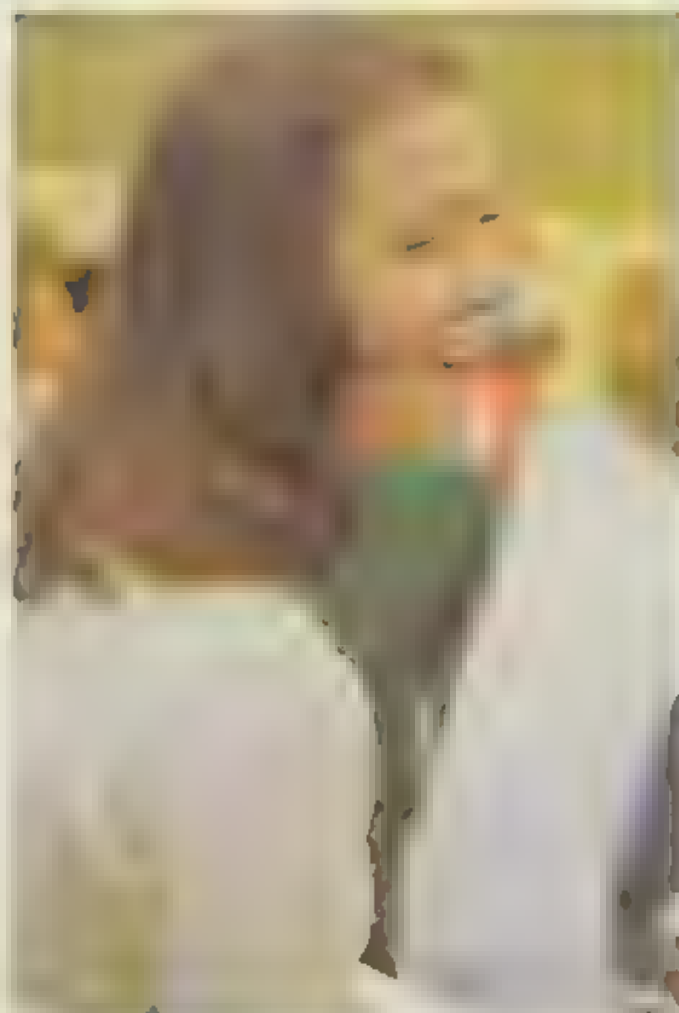

Susie Fisher and her friends enjoy a good conversation during lunch.

Lunch is the only peaceful time these seniors seem to have.

Students seem to enjoy the outdoors during lunch.

Michael Williams and friends enjoy the outdoors and a chance to play their guitars.

We Are All Passengers In Time

We have come a long way at Seventy-First and we have a much greater distance yet to travel. The moments we have at Seventy-First will soon become memories. These memories of friends and fun, of study and struggle will always be dear to us. We will take a great deal with us when we each leave Seventy-First and hopefully we will leave behind some constructive contributions. As passengers in time, we have many roads to travel. They may be long and difficult, but the fond memories will help us cherish our time at Seventy-First.

The Caring Gift of Love

Children learn: what they live

If a child lives with criticism, he learns to condemn.

If a child lives with security,
he learns to love.

If a child lives with tolerance,
he learns to be patient.

If a child lives with encouragement,
he learns to be confident.

If a child lives with praise,
he learns to appreciate.

If a child lives with love,
he learns to love.

If a child lives with respect,
he learns to be respectful.

If a child lives with kindness,
he learns to be kind.

If a child lives with honesty,
he learns to be honest.

If a child lives with integrity,
he learns to be upright.

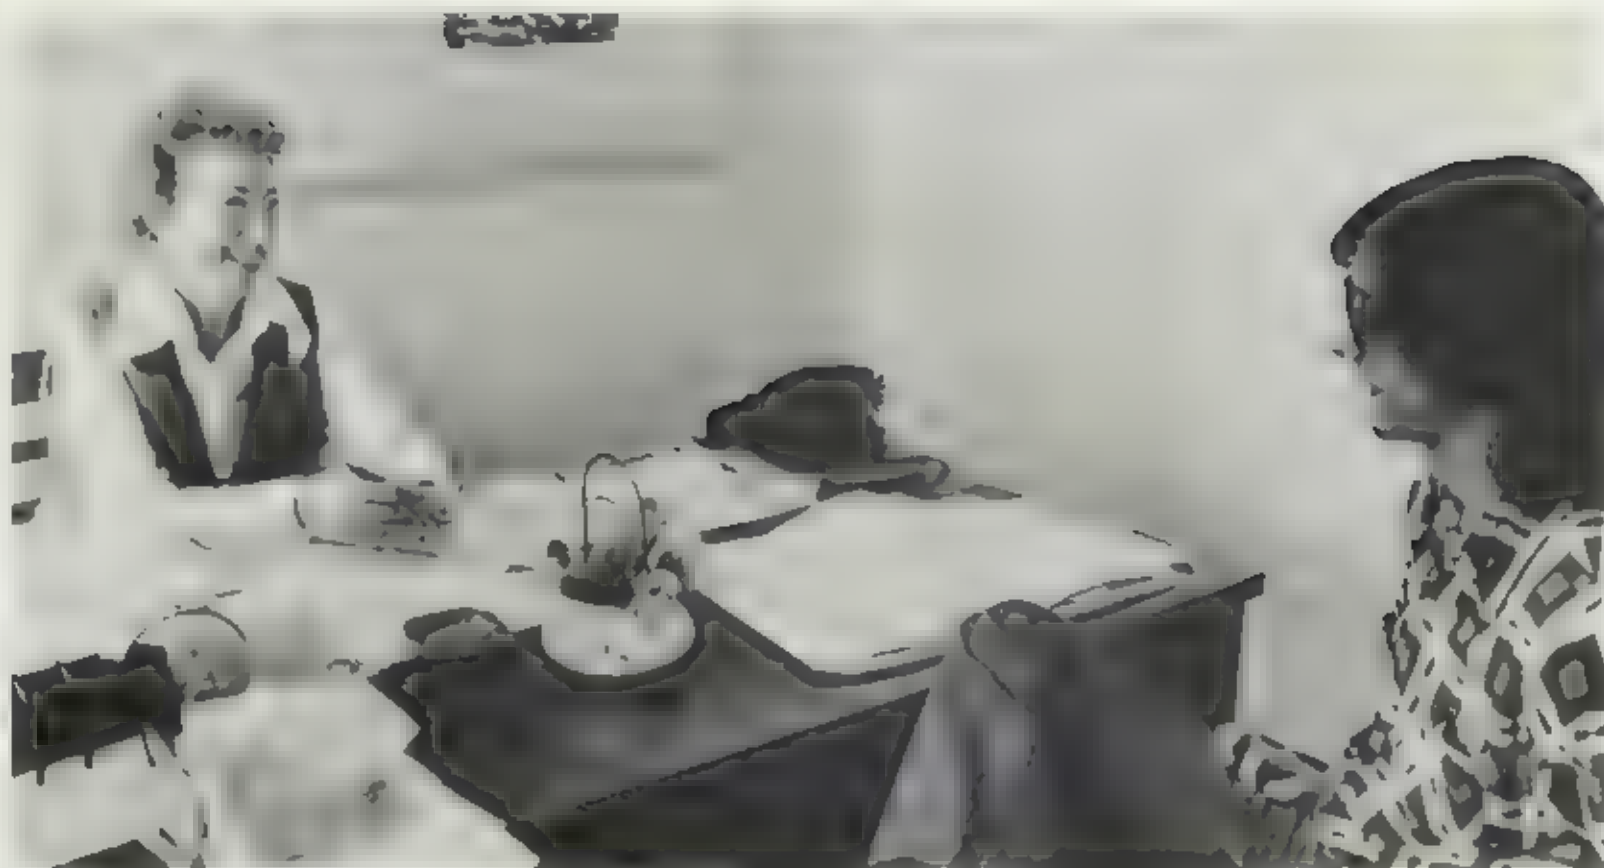

If a child lives with compassion,
he learns to be merciful.

If a child lives with faith,
he learns to believe.

If a child lives with hope,
he learns to dream.

If a child lives with love,
he learns to give.

Love is a hard word to define. It may be the caring and understanding one feels towards another; nevertheless, love is a gift given to all

At Seventy-First, there is one person whose love for people is immeasurable. Her efforts in helping students fulfill their goals is an ever-present quality. Her willingness to listen makes the student feel that he is important. The feeling of love between her and the students of Seventy-First is bonded together by a feeling of trust

Because of the devotion that she has shown us, the Hexagon staff wishes to dedicate this year's book to her. Mrs. Hilda Sneed Activities for Homecoming 1977-78 began on Monday, Oct. 30 with Spirit Week sponsored by the Student Council with Kiddy Day, Inside-out Day, Mr. Irresistible (Johnnie Sheppard), Dress-up Day and Friday as Red & White Day. Seniors donated the most money of all three classes to build the spirit chain which linked its way around the field.

A close first half shot excitement through the crowd and brought high hopes of victory for ending the Falcon football season. Disappointment prevailed as the Falcons were downed 33-14 despite scoring near the end of the game.

As the band played quietly, nine couples marched out under the ROTC Honor Guard. The Sophomore, Junior, and Senior representatives were announced and the crowd went wild. Everyone in the stands held his/her breath, waiting for the familiar name to be called. The happy expression on June Braden's face showed many people her victory as the Homecoming Queen of 1977-78. After the game, the students enjoyed themselves at the dance sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Scott at the Ramada Inn on I-95

THE WAY WE WERE

The romantic atmosphere of the 1976-77 Junior-Senior Prom was enhanced by the theme "The Way We Were". By tradition, the much popular theme was selected by the Junior Class. The Junior Class President, Kim Scott, showed good leadership in heading the decoration committee.

From 8:00 to 12:00 p.m., April 30, 1977, couples danced to the music of "Sweet Water" and enjoyed refreshments served by the sophomore waiters and waitresses.

As the memorable evening came to an end, the prom king and queen were announced. Mr. Kenneth Edge, the principal, crowned Darrol Wardlaw as king and Eva Archuleta as the queen. The royal couple was chosen by the Senior Class of '77 through a secret ballot. This very special occasion for the Junior and Senior Classes will always be a page in the book of memories.

Ten beautiful contestants stood tensely on stage, each having already answered an important question. Mr. Warner, the Emcee, tantalized the audience's curiosity by slowly announcing the fourth runner-up, third, second, first, and finally the 1977-78 Miss Seventy-First High. Photographer's flashes caught the new queen's expression as the lucky number and name was being called. Miss Joni Parker, a Junior, took her walk down the runway proudly displaying her newly acquired crown, trophy and bouquet of roses. Hugs, kisses and words of congratulations ended the night's pageantry.

The title of Miss Congeniality was given to Miss Kim Scott, a considerate and intelligent Senior. Sharon Jackson, acquired the most number of sponsors and received an award for her efforts.

A special thanks should be given to the FHA for organizing and successfully completing the 1977-78 Miss Seventy-First Pageant and also to the forty-seven lovely contestants who entered the pageant.

At first it sounded like that to the "aggressive and talented" football players who participated in the Powderpuff. It was a closely matched game with the Seniors taking the glory 6-2

This year's game was thrilling — especially the sidelines which featured southern cuties as cheerleaders. Excitement built even more at halftime when the Powderpuff Queen, Blakella Nelson and his court were announced. Gorgeous Blakella's beauty was overwhelming. The enthusiasm of the crowd, teams and beauty queen contestants made for an unforgettable day.

BASEBALL

Although the 76-77 baseball season will not be remembered as an outstanding one for 71st, we the student body wish to express our gratitude to the baseball team for their sportsmanship and effort in representing our school. The team had the misfortune of forfeiting their first 5 wins which put a damper on the team spirit. When the season was completed the record showed 5 wins and 13 losses

TRACK STARS SHINE...

The 71st Track team of 1976-77 had a great year. They placed high in the conference and then went to the state meet with Jerome Ballow placing 1st in the hurdles and Dean Leavitt placing 2nd in shot put. The team went through a change as 71st got a new Track coach, Pete Pittman, and new students on the team.

Smith 73 to 61. Mel Roseboro tied the individual scoring record of the tournament with 33 points, contributing to E. E. Smith's defeat. Playing Terry Sanford to a seventeen point deficit at the half-time, 71st closed the gap to one point losing 70-69. Third place was captured the last night of play when the Falcons downed Cape Fear 95-70 to break the highest scoring game record previously set by Seventy-First

J.V.

The Junior Varsity squads give players a chance to develop their athletic abilities. Playing on the JV each basketball team member had a chance to learn the 71st plays. This prepared them for the Varsity team for the next year.

The Junior Varsity 1977-78 basketball team had two Juniors and nine Sophomores. The JV team took on the challenging season under the leadership of Coach Heath.

coach (koch).n., a person who teaches or trains athletic teams, etc.

This dictionary definition just barely grasps the true meaning of coaching at Seventy-First. Coaches do more than train athletes; they care for the athletes as people.

Coaches stay extremely busy year-round. During the preseason they are already planning their particular sport. After tryouts for the team, the coaches have the task of conditioning the athletes mentally as well as physically. Finally, when the season begins, coaches must develop newer and better plays. Self-confidence, good sportsmanship in winning as well as in losing, and patience are all necessary ingredients supplied by the coaches in their culturing of "good athletes."

BARNY'S MAGNIFICENT

The 74 member band for the school year 77-78 has been practicing since July 7, 1977. They practiced every night during the summer from 6 to 9 in the evening working putting together and perfecting a half-time show to perform at all Seventy-First football games. Practices were long and hard. Some sections of the band would come at 5 and then practice with the whole band. The strenuous work, long hours and constant effort to make everything "just right" has proved their show to be a success

Varsity Cheerleaders prepare for a routine

"Fly, Falcons, Up to the Sky" came the sound of this famous song at almost every football and basketball game from the spirited Varsity Cheerleading Squad. Tryouts in early Spring of last year brought Seventy-First's 1977-78 school year a devoted and enthusiastic group of girls whose sponsor "was the best ever known to any squad," Miss Pam Page. Long and hard hours of practice were spent last year, during the summer and after school started to perfect the new squad

The Cheerleaders did a lot more than cheer at the games. Watermelons were served to the hot and thirsty football players in the August heat, a Homecoming celebration was given to them before the big game, and the squad acted as Secret Santas bringing candy and treats to all the basketball players. Red and White Bull's Eye Pom Poms were brought back this year to 71st as a result of the successful doughnut sale the squad held

Goofing around in the hall

Discouragement of the Varsity squad came when their high and towering mounts were outlawed in the middle of basketball season but the squad held out and still cheered with pep and enthusiasm. All in all, the 1977-78 Varsity Cheerleaders had a great season and were very proud to represent their school

Much like the Varsity Cheerleaders, the J.V. cheerleading squad are younger sophomores that may go on to the Varsity squad one day. The girls that make up the Jay-Vee cheerleading squad work very hard to bring their songs, chants and positions to near perfection. We, the student body are proud of the Junior Varsity Cheerleaders not only for adding more spirit to Seventy-First but also for encouraging the Baby Falcons to many victories

The Student Council, sponsored by Miss White, planned many activities for the student body to participate in this year. The activities included Homecoming and Homecoming Dance, along with other community services and student activities. All activities were very successful.

The Student Council was not elected to change rules. The council was elected to represent, and bring forth the ideas and opinions of the student body so that they could make Seventy-First more enjoyable to attend and more efficient to learn without changing rules.

HOME ROOM REPORTERS

Each homeroom was represented by a reporter who informed the classes of special events which took place during the year.

The Student Council met with the Homeroom Reporters approximately once a month to discuss upcoming events. The homerooms were then informed by the reporters what was discussed at the meeting.

Pande Cinard reports to her homeroom after a homeroom reporters meeting with the Student Council.

KEY CLUB

The Seventy-First Key Club consisted of young men with deep concern for their community. These young men performed their services without receiving rewards other than the personal satisfaction of knowing they had helped to create a better environment for future students of Seventy-First. The Key Club carried out activities such as the trash-a-thon, the Diabetes bike-a-thon, the adoption of an elderly couple, visiting the boys' home at Lake Waccamaw and many others that benefited the school during the school year.

The National Honor Society was sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

To create a desire for scholarships, to inspire character development, and to perform services to cultivate worthy leaders was the purpose of the National Honor Society.

The society helped escort parents during the Parent-Teacher Conference days. The oncoming project this year was to visit and entertain residents at nursing homes.

PERFORMING ENSEMBLE

Mixed Chorus is for any student who shows an outward interest in learning the proper way to produce vocal music. The course offered students the opportunity to familiarize with different styles of music.

The group consists of 37 men and women. The director of the chorus was Mr. McPherson.

Performing ensemble consisted of students who were hand selected to perform a special type of music. Their students learned the performing techniques of professional groups. Being open-minded and tough enough to accept ideas with the performance in mind was a big requirement.

GUITAR

Learning to play a guitar enabled students to make their own music. The guitar classes were always filled with the melodies of strumming music. This year the guitar classes gave an assembly for students and parents. The truly satisfied audience greeted each performance with great applause. Guitar classes were directed by Ms. Congar.

HAND BELLS

Handbells were offered to advanced music students who were capable of understanding music theory. The classes consisted of 14 students. The bells are instruments which must be played with care. The students gave a Christmas and Spring concert for parents and students.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club has cultivated a greater understanding this year through guest speakers, Spanish students who attend Seventy-First, and Mr. Benton the club's advisor.

The Spanish Club sold Turkey grams in November and performed for the student body in January. The club also enjoyed dinner at La Cocena

OFFICE WORKERS

Being an Office Worker was a very busy job. The students spent their study hall, answering telephones, running errands and checking students in and out of school. The Office Workers were a lot of help to the secretary at the front office

LIBRARY WORKERS

Each day many students gave up their study hall to work in the library. The workers shelved books, and worked at the circulation desk. This helped the librarians to present and offer the library to the students in the best way possible

PEP CLUB

The Pep Club was the largest and most spirited club in Seventy-First. It was composed of a group of students willing to support Seventy-First by showing their spirit.

The club was very active this year: they sold ribbons, bumper stickers, pom poms and held a spirit jug contest and a spirit chain contest between the classes

The Pep Club was responsible for the beautiful Fighting Falcons banner and Falcon letter cards held up during the basketball games

The club aided Seventy-First teams in their many victories in 1977 and 1978

ART CLUB

The Art Club members wished to further their understanding and appreciation of art. Being a member of the Art Club also enlarged the members talents. Each member was given a project to do to display his/her talents

BUS DRIVERS

Being a bus driver was a very big responsibility. Getting students to and from school, watching out for traffic and taking care of their buses were important jobs. The drivers got up early to start their buses and to greet passengers with a smile. Students who took a three day workshop, and passed a road test received a certified bus drivers license

Substitute drivers kept the buses rolling. Whenever a driver was absent, a substitute took the drivers place to continue transporting students to and from school.

Commander of the Regulation Drill Team was Brian Bumann. This drill team performed without arms. The team had fourteen members.

The Monkey Drill Team made up their own moves and performed them in a military way. Captains of this team were David Raeford and Kelly Cotten. The ten members are the liveliest and most rhythmic of all the drill teams.

The Female Drill Team commanded by Andrea Campbell had thirteen members in its third year as a part of the Seventy-First AF JROTC program.

NEWSPAPER STAFF

At Seventy-First the students were informed of the many constant activities with the help of the Falcon Newspaper

The Falcon informed students of activities such as sports, special events, and other things the student body was interested in. It provided a place to publish students creative writings

This year the newspaper staff was composed of eleven hard workers who spent a lot of time to put the Falcon together.

OFFICERS

As school opened in the fall of '77, the Senior Class suddenly realized that this was their last year. This was their last year to have some of the best times they would ever have. They were a proud class! As school got under way, the election of officers and representatives became the topic of conversation for everyone. Senior class officers elected were: President—Kim Hall, Vice-President — Kim Kirkland, Secretary-Treasurer — Roxanne Brocke

In November, the choice for caps, gowns and tassels was made. Graduation was only six months away! Senior—It had struck each student that they had it made . . . Their own cafeteria, Senior Prom, Senior Production and finally graduation. Yet for twelve years of school, all they had to show was a diploma. This diploma did not mention tears, the smiles and the anxieties that Seniors felt throughout their last year at SFH. Nor did it mention the close friends they had made or the special times they would always hold dear. As June approached, they became excited and yet at the same time frightened

Finally the time has arrived to say "goody-bye" to close friends and special teachers with a promise to keep in touch. There is a feeling in the air of sadness mixed with proudness.

When Seniors receive their diplomas they should stand tall and be proud because they are number one.

Love is a necessary part of everyone's life

PASSENGERS ABOARD THE

Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors are the pride and joy that make up the respectful high school of Seventy-First. They are all important to the school for they are the ones that make Seventy-First well known. We bid farewell to the Seniors and hope the Sophomores and Juniors carry on the pride and joy of Seventy-First High School.

FACULTY & ACADEMICS

A SPECIAL TRIBUTE

Nominated for Teacher of the Year
 Thirty years of faithful teaching
 A teacher who is sincerely concerned about her students
 The achievements above can only describe Mrs. Morie Howard. She gives to the classroom what ideally all teachers should give. Mrs. Howard, who is in charge of C.O.O., spends countless hours securing jobs for her students and studying their progress. She teaches her students how to survive and ultimately succeed in the business world. Her dedication and sacrifices sometimes go unnoticed; therefore, as a faculty and student body we take this opportunity to simply say we appreciate and thank you.

Readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmatic

English class takes care of the first two, which include compositions, poems, verbs clauses and Hemmingway.

English can be fun! The readin' part may take you into worlds you have never imagined possible. The exciting and thrilling world of Edgar Allen Poe, or the humorous world of Erma Bombeck. You may feel what it is like to be a sleath or what it is like to be a criminal!

The 'ritin' part will take you through d agramming sentences and finding out whch word is the direct object and which is the in-direct. Learning how to write correctly teaches you to communicate. This all takes practice of course!

Some of the classes participated in "Show and Tell" at the beginning of the year so that students would get acquainted with one another. This and giving oral book reports help student to get over their shyness in front of large groups

Math Department

The Mathematics Department offers seven different courses designed to prepare our students for whatever endeavors they may pursue after graduation. Seventy-First High School is the only school in the county offering Advanced Placement Math (Calculus).

Mr. K. Mathews
Geometry, Algebra
Key Club Advisor

Gary Schott sits at his desk preparing an assignment in an Algebra II class

Geometry

Every year the Annual High School Math Test is given to interested Junior and Senior math students. Our school and students are ranked with other schools and students in North Carolina.

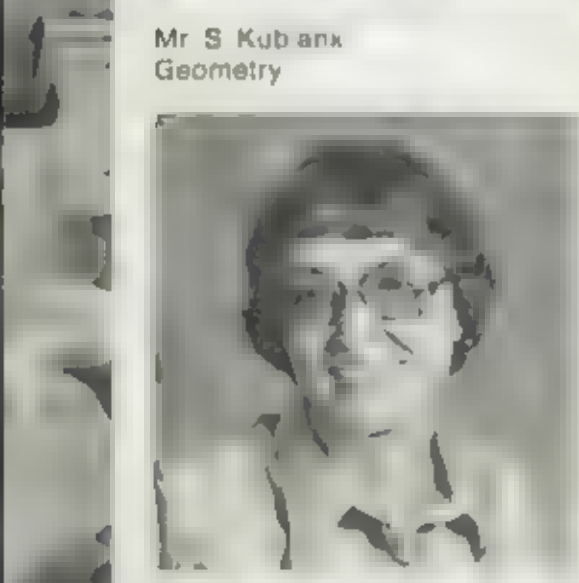

Members of Mu Alpha Theta, the math club, are selected from the Algebra II classes.

The Math Department tries to help each student understand enough mathematics to meet his or her individual needs—whether those needs are to spend money wisely or to be efficient in technical mathematics required for one interested in engineering.

Students who enjoy music, in any form, have a large selection of classes from which to choose in order to bring out their talents. For the vocalists, there are Treble Chorus and Performing Ensemble. For the person who likes to combine singing with a musical instrument there is Guitar.

Handbells, which began last year, is an arousing new addition to Seventy-First. Our school is the only school in Cumberland County to have Handbells.

Stage band is an elite group of musicians who perform during halftime at the basketball games under Mr. Barnhardt's careful eye and waving arms.

Richard Upchurch, Richard Hilton, and Leonard Alfred practice on their saxophones to keep their Number 1 rating.

Asst. Football

1977-78 brought to Seventy-First the adoption of Co-ed P.E. and Advanced P.E. for students who wish to go into Physical Education. The P.E. Department offers a wide variety of sports and activities such as: football, soccer, basketball, track and field, tennis, tumbling, golf and gymnastics.

The sole purpose of a P.E. department is to interest teenagers in activities and the importance of being physically fit. The SFH Department encourages the development of character and sportsmanlike playing. Teaching students to work as a team and to get along with others is a major goal set by the staff members.

R.O.T.C.

The Air Force Junior ROTC department is instructed by (Ret.) Lt. Colonel Joseph R. Ethier and his assistant (Ret.) SMSGT James T. Strickland. The cadet corps are broken into five flights. Class time is devoted to Aerospace Education, leadership training, and a drill

The studies include orientation to U.S A.F. customs and courtesies, how aircraft operates, navigation, and an analysis of factors and techniques involved in leadership situations

The units participate in parades and drill meets. Cadets hold a Military Ball and Dining In.

Without them, life would not have marched on. Though the people "at the top" worked hard, the secretaries were often snowed under in paperwork. Just as the faithful worker would begin to type or fill out a form the telephone would ring. Then an absent-minded student would open the door to the office and a gust of wind would gently disperse the papers—all over the floor!

These helpful people eased the load of many a frantic "boss" but sometimes wished for secretaries of their own.

These are all an interesting part of Science. Students have a wide variety of classes to choose from to satisfy their curiosities: General Biology, Advanced Biology, Physics, and Chemistry.

General Biology is a requirement in order to graduate. Students learn to understand themselves and the world around them.

In Advanced Biology students are allowed to investigate the living process in depth.

Physics is the study of energy and matter and the changes they undergo. "May the Force be with you."

Chemistry students learn about the physical makeup of matter. Developing skills in manipulating lab techniques and understanding scientific methods in safety practices is the goal for this college prep course.

Vocational

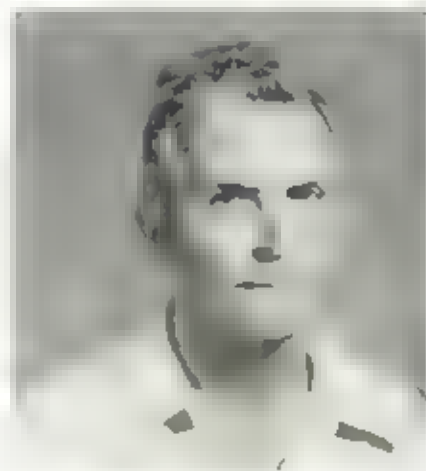

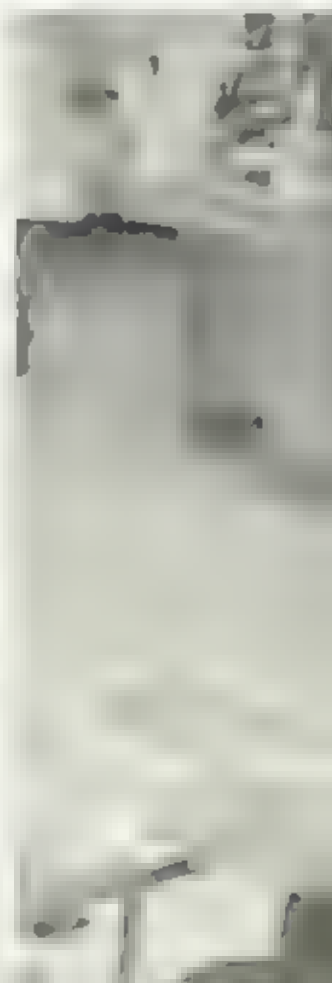

Drafting is a functional art. It is a communication of information through drawings. Anything that is manufactured must be designed and drafted.

Do you want to build a picnic table, a boat, or a house? The knowledge of drafting helps in all of these areas.

Carpentry is learning to build houses and learning to handle tools properly. Carpentry students are responsible for building many useful items around the school. They built the band risers, choir tables, coaches office, and the stools used in the front office

Bricklaying is also a part of the Vocational Classes. Students are taught the fundamental skills of masonry. Masonry students experience on the job training

Guidance Counselors

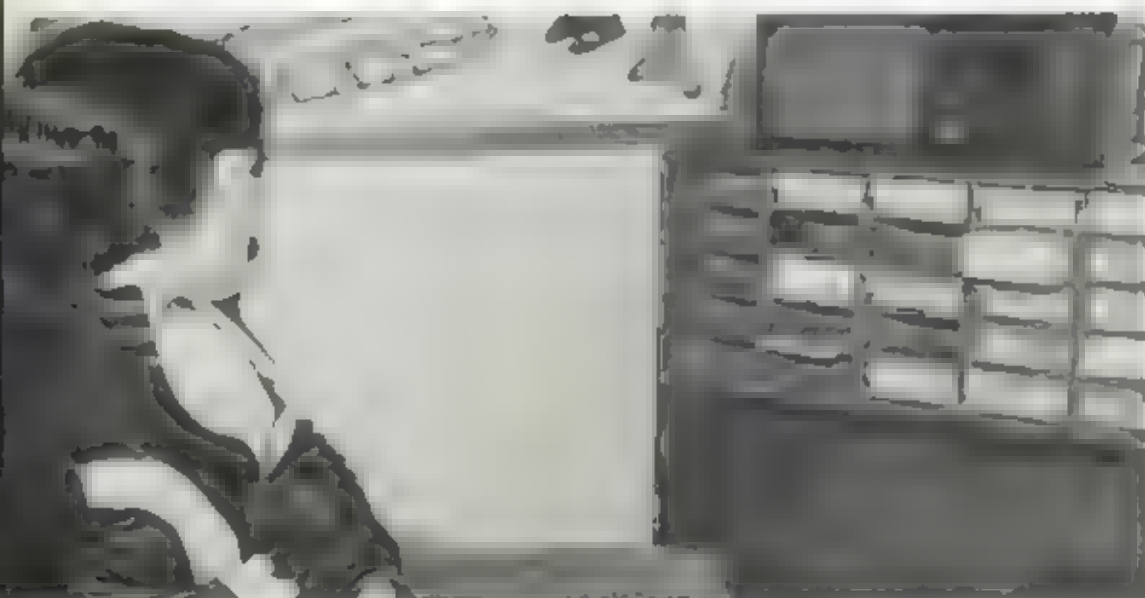

This year's Guidance Counselors were always available and willing to help the students with personal or academic problems. Even if a solution to a problem was not found, the qualified Seventy-First Guidance Counselors were always there to lend a sympathetic ear. Helping students with plans, tests, grades, and college, the understanding counselors worked hard and really cared about their students.

Library

The Media Center provides many resources to the student body and staff at Seventy-First. Among the many "happenings" and improvements in the Center this year have been a new and inviting lounge area for reading, the utilization of instructional television in the classroom, and proudly displayed student artwork throughout the year.

The library staff, student assistants and the Library Club have had an active year promoting the varied media services available in the center. The staff includes two media resource teachers and a full-time media clerk: Mrs. Baum, Head Librarian, Mrs. Little and Mrs. Saltz, Media Clerk.

Thirty dedicated student assistants gave up their study hall this year in order to keep the Media Center running smoothly. We could have hardly managed without them!

HELP ONE STUDENT TO SUCCEED

Hosts was a program for students willing to spend their first, second, and third periods teaching elementary students to read and write. Being on the Hosts program benefited both elementary and secondary students. The Hosts learned how to teach younger students to read on their required reading level. The Hosts had to be very understanding. The giving of their time and patience to students showed they cared.

Well Mel,

You're made it to the top, but it's not the end, it's a new beginning for you. I know you'll succeed in all you do. Mel, you're a person that's so understanding and easy to get along with. Seeing that your personality is of high standards, I feel your greatest ambitions and goals will forever be reached. The relationship we have is so unique and the love between us is really special. People always had their comments about our relationship, but the understanding is something only you and I can sincerely understand. Mel, you're really sweet, handsome and a real lovable, special type of young man. When you become a famous basket ball star, I'm hoping I'll be there to share it with you. You have a lot to look forward to and in everything you do I can only wish for you, the best because you deserve just that. I have feelings for you that are truly different than any I've ever experienced. When you go away to college, keep in touch. I hope our future plans are accomplished. Stay Sweet and take it easy.

Hugs & Kisses

To MF

you can be a very sweet young man when you want to be. I wish we could have become closer friends than we were. But what the hell. we were good enough although you never spoke to me in the halls remember me whenever you go

It's not really a big thing, honey. Love Covers in the fall. I don't forget me when you are far away. I'll just and I'll be right there when I'm home.
I'll be home soon.

Mel,

A very cool individual who I've known well over my I've also thought you were an excellent basketball and knew your basketball career looked bright.
Keep up your good skills and I'll be cheering you on.

PS Remember the one-on-one games we use to play when we were young! (smile)

The first of these is the fact that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex one, and it is not a simple one. It is a complex one, and it is not a simple one. It is a complex one, and it is not a simple one.

A young man I have known for some time with has been a great big hassle. I know we have had our misunderstandings but I guess things are better now. I don't forget me because I know I'm your favorite girlfriend. (even if I don't get a picture), and if you ^{forget} ^{me} don't let me see you.
